Projektbeschreibung kurz

Italian justice system is the most expensive in Europe: 69 Euros are paid for "services" provided by our 165 Courts, 200 branch offices and almost the same number of Prosecutor's Offices. As far as civil justice is concerned, the ratio of pending cases to the annual number of the new ones is more than 100%, whereas it varies from 10 to 40% in other countries. The economic impact of this slowness is estimated in an amount around the 1% of the GDP. In 2009 the Minister of Public Authority, the Minister of Justice and the Regions agreed with the European Union on the need for an interregional project called "Dissemination of best practices in judicial offices" on the source of European Social Funds. 23 regional bids were prepared and assigned to 97 judicial offices participating in the project (that is 6% of judicial offices in Italy). The idea is that exemplary projects can disseminate solutions and methods throughout the entire system.
